From the President

With the end of the academic year in sight, it's time to take a deep breath and relax. But not for too long! Summer offers a great time to fine tune your structured literacy skills. There is no better way to help the many students who struggle to master reading, writing and spelling. Whether you are looking for in-depth training or a short course, there is something for you. See below.

A Morning on Morphology

The spelling of many English words can leave even those who know some structured literacy basics scratching their heads. Join us via Zoom on Saturday, June 11 from 10-11am as author and educator Sue Scibetta Hegland unlocks the morphology behind some confounding spellings. This session is free of charge, but please register here.

Structured Literacy Summer Trainings

NorCal IDA is bringing back popular trainer Ron Yoshimoto for two one-week basic and a one-day advanced Yoshimoto OG training in Marin County. These in-person sessions will be held the last weeks in June and are filling quickly. Click here for locations, dates, and registration.

Virtual Orton Gillingham Academy-approved trainings at the Classroom Educator and Associate Level are being offered by NorCal IDA members Nancy Redding and by Grace Sharma. In-person Slingerland Structured Language training under the direction of Nancy Cushen White will be offered in Mill Valley. Click here for a complete course listing and space availability. Some trainings are eligible for scholarship support through IDA NorCal.

Adults with Dyslexia Monthly Network Meeting

Our sister branch, IDA Oregon, offers a live, monthly virtual chat space where adults (age 18+) living with dyslexia can network and share resources. Connect with others to help further your professional goals as a student, employee, or job seeker. Register for the Professional Dyslexia Network here.
